First Nations communities and their supporters rallied on the island and staged a colourful march to Parliament Hill to call on the Canadian government to improve opportunities for native youth.

Day of Action targets poverty

Call to help Canada's First Nations youth trumps protests

By TRACEY TONG
Metro Ottawa

It's all for the kids.

Thousands of people rallied at Victoria Island and on Parliament Hill yesterday for the second annual aboriginal Day of Action, in a peaceful demonstration meant to turn Canadians' attention away from last year's road blockades and focus it on child poverty.

"This march today was about our kids," Assembly of First Nations National Chief Phil Fontaine said during an event marked by colourful garb and displays of traditional dance and song.

'I think it would be better to be in a real school'

» A group of students from Attawapiskat, on James Bay, didn't get what they'd hoped for from the Day of Action. Their request for a new school was turned down yesterday by Indian Affairs Minister Chuck Strahl, who said there's no money for an elementary school in the community.

The community's school was closed after a 1978 diesel oil spill. Students have been in portables for eight years, without a gym or a library.

"I've always been in a portable," said student Marvin Kioke, 14. "But I think it would be better to be in a real school."

A year after the event shut down Highway 401, the AFN had urged participants this year to obey the law and rallies in Ottawa were peaceful, with city police reporting no problems. Fontaine said the demonstration is not about blockades, but about recruiting Canadians to help end First Nations' poverty, which he called "a shameful situation."

Thirty-nine aboriginal communities in Canada are without schools, said Fontaine, and there's a housing shortage of about 80,000 homes.

"Children have the right to go to school with food, and come home to a decent home with clean water," he said. "Why is all this happening in one of the richest countries in the world?"

The day is meant to demand answers to that question from the federal government.

"We want to communicate a clear set of objectives for the Government of Canada to work with us," said coordinator Dan Wilson.

The rally also asked the government to: replace the Indian Act with First Nations involvement in local decision-making power; provide fair funding in core programs like education and child and family services; and recognize the rights of First Nations governments.

"Things have not improved for us, and indeed, problems are growing," said Algonquin National Elder William Commanda. "My people are the most disadvantaged. We do not receive an equitable share of our own resources."

Now feds will probe sewage spill

Baird announces third investigation

By TIM WIECLAWSKI
Metro Ottawa

The federal government is now launching its own probe into the massive sewage spill of August 2006, bringing to three the number of independent investigations into the incident that saw a billion litres of raw wastewater discharge into the Ottawa River.

Environment Minister John Baird, the Ottawa-Nepean-West MP, announced the federal investigation yesterday, to be conducted under the Fisheries Act. That is in addition to a probe by the Ontario Ministry of Environment and the city auditor general.

"As a lifelong resident of our city, I am obviously concerned about the potential negative environmental and health impacts that may have resulted from this incident," Baird said. "I cannot comment on the details of the investigation, (but) we certainly want to ensure that an incident like this does not happen in the future."

how the leak happened

» The sewage was released when a pipe gate got jammed open for two weeks beginning in Aug 1, 2006.

City officials were not made aware of the until May 2007 and councillors did not learn of it until earlier this month.

Responding to Baird's announcement, Mayor Larry O'Brien said the fact that the federal government is now investigating is evidence of the importance of discovering the facts, and determining who within the city structure knew what and when about the sewage spill.

"This is about accountability and creating an open and transparent government," O'Brien said. "We need to foster a climate at city hall where information is shared throughout the organization and to ensure staff at all levels feel comfortable bringing this kind of information forward."

On Wednesday, the city fired a supervisor it alleged lied to superiors about reporting the incident to the province in 2006.

Diverse groups join natives' rally

Universal issues draw wide support

By TRACEY TONG
Metro Ottawa

Non-native groups, businesspeople, students, politicians — even clergy — joined First Nations protesters in droves yesterday, saying the issues affecting aboriginal people are all Canadians' to help bear.

"I'm sort of disgusted by the treatment of indigenous people in Canada," said Carleton University student Erin Cummings, who attended on Parliament Hill during the Day of Action rally. "It's important to show solidarity with the First Nations people. I support the abolishment of poverty in First Nations communities.

> « I'm sort of disgusted by the treatment of indigenous people in Canada. It's important to show solidarity with the First Nations people. I support the abolishment of poverty in First Nations communities. »
> Carleton University student Erin Cummings

"This problem shouldn't exist in a nation as wealthy as Canada," she said.

Cummings, who is studying history and aboriginal studies, has heard firsthand the stories of addiction and suicide within native communities, yet she notes how vibrant the culture remains in the face of modern challenges.

A primate with the Anglican Church of Canada, Fred Hiltz said he attended to raise his voice alongside others. Event organizer Dan Wilson said the event attracted dozens of local groups to join demonstrators.

Accounting for the depth of non-native support, Vera Pawis Tabobondung, president of the National Association of Friendship Centres, said the issues facing First Nations are universal and people of all races can relate.

"They might be different because of the geography, but poverty is poverty. Underfunding is underfunding. Racism is still racism. Your homeless is the same as our homeless. It doesn't matter where you are."

Toting a homemade sign reading "Justice for Natives, Eh?" political science student Aline Fontaine said "it's important for the federal government to work with the Assembly of the First Nations for a fair and juster Canada."

Representatives from unions and the major political parties, including former prime minister Paul Martin, attended the Victoria Island event.

CHEO telethon reminder of service

By TIM WIECLAWSKI
Metro Ottawa

In April 2001, 20-month-old Sean McCarthy was brought into hospital with a body temperature of 26 Celsius, showing no vital signs for two hours.

Rescued from a thawing creek after 20 minutes in the water, his body shut down almost immediately.

As a last ditch effort, Sean was attached to an extracorporeal membrane oxygenation machine, which removes, warms then restores oxygenated blood to the body.

"When we signed the release papers for that procedure, they told us then it was just experimental. That it was a last chance thing," said his mother, Natalie.

But it worked. And 10 days later Sean was revived from a coma and four days after that he went home, as healthy as ever.

If it weren't for the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario, Natalie said, her son would not be alive today.

At noon on Sunday, the McCarthys will be featured in a "Where are they now" segment of the CHEO telethon as living proof of the life-saving work the Ottawa hospital does every day.

This is the 25th telethon, which starts at 7 p.m. tomorrow on CTV. It has raised around $63 million since it started.

"We depend on the community we serve and they have always been very generous," CHEO foundation vice-president Norma Lamont said.

Cops probe alleged abduction attempt

CRIME A 14-year-old girl likely avoided abduction when she refused a man's demand that she get into his van.

Police are investigating the suspicious incident that happened at 8:45 a.m. Wednesday. The girl was walking at the intersection of Riverdale Avenue and Echo Drive when a blue "delivery-style" van pulled up alongside her and the male motorist twice asked the teen is she wanted a ride.

When the girl twice refused him, the man demanded she get into the back of his van. He then drove away after she refused.

The suspect is described as a white male, with a tanned complexion, brush cut and a muscular or stocky build. METRO OTTAWA

Dad suspected in Calgary deaths: Cops

Motive unknown in what may be murder-suicide

By NEIL MACKINNON
Metro Calgary

The lone male among five dead people found in a Calgary home may have been responsible for the violence in what is now being looked at as a potential murder-suicide, police said yesterday.

"Preliminary investigations have led us down that path," said Insp. Guy Slater, cautioning against jumping to conclusions as it's still early in the investigation

Police are expected to confirm the names of the deceased today after autopsies were completed last night.

Neighbours said the house was home to Joshua Lall, 34, his wife Alison, 35, and two daughters, Kristen, 6, and Rochelle, 4, who were discovered dead along with tenant Amber Bowerman, found in a basement suite, when police and EMS arrived at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Cohos Evamy Integrated Design chairman Rob Adamson, the firm where Lall worked designing accessible buildings for the disabled, said the 34-year-old was a "dedicated and committed" member of their team who will be "sorely missed."

Adamson declined to comment on whether Lall had scheduled time off.

Police wouldn't indicate whether they had retrieved the murder weapon or a suicide note and said they have yet to establish a motive for the slayings, but are working with family and friends to establish a broader picture and didn't rule out a mental breakdown.

sole survivor

» The Lall's one-year-old daughter, Anna, was the lone-survivor of the suspected murder-suicide, and is "doing well" in protective custody, Insp. Guy Slater said.

Sexes differ in relationships

Love is in the air for over 70 per cent of Canadians, but men and women seem to view romantic relationships differently, according to a new survey.

An Ipsos Reid poll that surveyed 1,033 Canadian adults found 78 per cent of women said they were in love, while only 64 per cent of men said the same.

"It seems that men and women are not quite on the same page," said Sean Simpson, research manager at Ipsos Reid. "There may be some lack of communication going on, or that perhaps men are slower to come around and realize their feelings." REUTERS

Official quits torch relay

Rescuers battling rain, chemicals

A local official in Sichuan province withdrew from the prestigious Olympics torch relay as "atonement" for construction problems at collapsed schools, even as rescuers battled rain, lakes and chemicals in the aftermath of the devastating May 12 earthquake.

Thousands of the quake's victims were children, killed when schools collapsed. Inspectors have taken samples of rubble to see if shoddy construction material was used.

Lin Qiang, vice inspector of the Sichuan provincial educational department, said collapsed buildings might have been more solid "if we educational officials hadn't left loopholes for corruption," according to the official Xinhua news agency. REUTERS

Plastics industry riled over bag bans

MOVEMENT The Canadian plastic industry is lashing out at growing movement to eliminate plastic shopping bags, saying that an outright ban could cause more environmental harm than good.

Earlier this week, the LCBO announced it would phase out plastic bags as part of ongoing efforts to become more environmentally friendly.

But the Canadian Plastics Industry Association contends banning plastic bags will fail to change consumers' behaviour and may actually lead to more waste plastic as people switch to alternatives. REUTERS

Canucks' Bourdon dies in motorcycle accident

Vancouver Canucks defenceman Luc Bourdon was killed in a motorcycle accident yesterday, the NHL team said.

Bourdon

Bourdon, 21, was a member of the Canadian team that won gold medals at the 2006 and 2007 world junior hockey championships.

"We are deeply saddened by today's news and on behalf of the entire Vancouver Canucks organization, I would like to extend my sincere sympathies to Luc's family," Canucks general manager Mike Gillis said in a statement.

A native of Shippagan in New Brunswick, Bourdon was a first-round pick (10th overall) by Vancouver in the 2005 draft. He scored twice with no assists in 36 NHL games for the Canucks.

BRUCE BENNETT/GETTY IMAGES

Detroit Red Wings forwards Pavel Datsyuk, left, and Henrik Zetterberg, second left, have only one goal between them in the first three games of the Stanley Cup Finals. The pair will need to remedy that situation if Detroit hopes to win Game 4 in Pittsburgh tomorrow night.

Wings duo look to shift into high gear

Time for Datsyuk, Zetterberg to shine

Henrik Zetterberg remembers another time when his coach tried to break him.

His Red Wings were in Minnesota this season, sweating out a practice, and Mike Babcock decided to make a point. The night before, Zetterberg and Pavel Datsyuk — Detroit's two star forwards — had let their shifts creep up to average over a minute.

So the coach skated them hard in a series of one-minute sprints; repeating it over and over till their legs burned.

"We had to skate the length of our shifts. My shift lengths were 1:01," recalled Zetterberg. "We were bag skating for a minute, seven or eight times. And he said, 'You can't play like this.' We pretty much agreed. He's been on us a few times over the year."

Babcock was on his stars again yesterday, re-emphasizing that less is more when it comes to ice time. In Wednesday's game, Zetterberg's ice time drifted up to an average of 51 seconds over 29 shifts. Datsyuk averaged 50 seconds over 27 shifts.

"We want them to play that many shifts but we want the tempo coming off our bench to be better," Babcock said.

It's easier said then done.

"Sometimes if you've been on there for 30 seconds and you have a chance to go out for another rush, it's tough to go to the bench," said Zetterberg.

Ice time would be less of an issue if Zetterberg and Datsyuk were actually producing. But Detroit's two big gunners have only one goal – from Zetterberg – in the first three games of the Stanley Cup final. They were held pointless in Wednesday's 3-2 loss.

» TENNIS Reputations counted for little at the French Open yesterday when seeds Amelie Mauresmo, James Blake and David Nalbandian were toppled by opponents ranked outside the world's top 75. Women's sixth seed Anna Chakvetadze also joined the exodus but triple champion Rafael Nadal, Roger Federer, Venus Williams and Jelena Jankovic survived the carnage and dodged the rain, which once again returned to Roland Garros, to march on.

» SOCCER Ontario native Julian de Guzman was named the player of the year by La Liga soccer side Deportivo la Coruna. De Guzman, 27, is the only Canadian ever to play in the top Spanish flight, judged by many to be the world's best league.

» MLB The Tampa Bay Rays placed pitcher Troy Percival on the 15-day disabled list yesterday with a left hamstring strain.

Devotion written in ink for Coheed And Cambria fans

By AMANDA B. HAUPT
for Metro Ottawa

CHAPMAN BAEHLER PHOTO

Good Apollo, I'm Burning Star IV, Volume Two: No World for Tomorrow is the latest concept album from New York group Coheed And Cambria.

COHEED AND CAMBRIA'S website has a section called fan uploads with the subheading tattoos; posted are numerous photos of fans expressing their devotion to the progressive rock band in ink.

"I think it's really awesome," bassist Michael Todd tells Metro. "We are the definition of a cult band and that kind of proves it, and I love it."

Hailing from New York, the band's lineup also includes vocalist and guitarist Claudio Sanchez, guitarist Travis Stever and drummer Chris Pennie.

Known for their concept albums, Coheed's current release, Good Apollo, I'm Burning Star IV, Volume Two: No World For Tomorrow, is the band's fourth disc and part of a continuing storyline based on Sanchez's comic book project called the Amory Wars.

Todd summarizes the plot, explaining, "there are two characters, kind of antiheroes Coheed and Cambria, and their children, and basically what happens after their (Coheed and Cambria's) deaths and their one son's vendetta, ends the entire universe."

That's the extremely short version. When asked if the band worries about alienating potential new fans by overwhelming them with the complex story, the bassist does admit it comes with a certain level of baggage.

"We make a point that you don't really need the story to get into the music. I mean we're a rock band first and foremost. The story's there if people choose to explore that avenue, but it's definitely not necessary."

more online

» For this week's CD reviews visit metronews.ca.

Todd says the band has at least one more disc planned to tie in to the comics.

"We have one more definitely and that will wrap up everything in this particular part of the story. And then we might move on to another part of the universe or we might make regular records."

With a list of Influences that includes Queen, Pink Floyd, and Led Zeppelin, it's no wonder Coheed and Cambria's music is generally labeled as prog rock.

But lately the group has also been labelled with the emo tag, which is something Todd doesn't necessarily agree with,

"I think it's an all encompassing band we have here, in the broad sense it's just rock music. Progressive's I think the most accurate category," he says, "Generally we're a rock band first and foremost."

The Strangers

Stars Liv Tyler, Scott Speedman
Director Bryan Bertino

14A

By STEVE GOW
for Metro Ottawa

The Strangers opens this weekend.

REVIEW THE STRANGERS is probably not what you think it is. Oh sure, it's a horror movie about maniacal stalking killers, but if you're expecting something like Scream or The Texas Chainsaw Massacre, then you got another thing coming.

Liv Tyler (Lord of the Rings) and Scott Speedman (Weirdsville) play a couple returning to a summer house in the woods after a wedding reception. They don't seem too happy though.

Maybe that's because Kristen (Tyler) just rejected James' (Speedman) marriage proposal – that does tend to ruin the shindig.

Soon, the couple find themselves not just exposed emotionally, but also to a group of mask-wearing oddballs who slowly begin harassing them in the middle of the night. What they want, nobody knows, but by the time they cut off the phone lines, smash the only vehicle for escape and sneak into the house, you've chomped your fingernails down to the cuticle. By the plot, that doesn't sound too shockingly original it successfully provides what-seems-to-take-forever moments of torment and anticipation.

When Kristen asks a killer why they're doing this, they simply reply: "Because you were home": This isn't just a horror flick; it's the No Country for Old Men of horror flicks. And, as if that isn't reason enough to see The Strangers, I defy anyone not to find a wheezy asthmatic in a homemade balaclava pretty damn terrifying.

INDIANA JONES AND THE KINGDOM OF THE CRYSTAL SKULL

★★★★ (out of 5)

Film fans will smile when they hear John Williams' famed score and see that trademark fedora make its first appearance in 19 years, in an anticipated re-introduction to the greatest adventure character. The dialogue plods at times and a few scenes are too far-fetched, but The Kingdom Of The Crystal Skull is a joy.

CHRIS ATCHISON/FOR METRO OTTAWA

IRON MAN

★★★★ (out of 5)

Robert Downey Jr. as Iron Man, a.k.a. arms dealer turned good guy Tony Stark, proves he's one of today's best character actors. With a great supporting cast (Jeff Bridges, Gwyneth Paltrow), thrilling action sequences and funny dialogue, Iron Man is a welcome return to the comic book movie genre.

STEVE GOW/FOR METRO OTTAWA

A family film created by the folks behind the Matrix movies, Speed Racer dazzles with intense colour and pop art visuals. Driver Emile Hirsch (Into the Wild) teams up with Racer-X (Matthew Fox of TV's Lost) to bankrupt the suits fixing races. Great performances, though, are overshadowed by visual bombardment.

THE CHRONICLES OF NARNIA: PRINCE CASPIAN

Oscar-nominated director Andrew Adamson (Shrek, Shrek 2) does a fine job bringing the second instalment of the Narnia Chronicles to life with a blend of old-fashioned sword fights and dazzling special effects. This is another well-casted, well-written entry in the series.

WHAT HAPPENS IN VEGAS

Jack (Ashton Kutcher) and Joy (Cameron Diaz) get hitched one boozy Vegas night. The morning-after annulment is cancelled when he hits a $3-million jackpot with her quarter. Now they're stuck with each other for the sake of the dough. A promising start can't save this ordinary, slightly offensive film.

WHERE IN THE WORLD IS OSAMA BIN LADEN?

Morgan Spurlock (Super Size Me) takes on another international brand name, al Qaeda, in his Muslim world search for its elusive leader. Spurlock is earnest and charming, but the film's big revelation is no biggie — America has a big PR problem in the Middle East. Duh.

STEVE GOW/FOR METRO OTTAWA

Christian Bale is set to become the latest face of the Got Milk? campaign. Bale will don the batsuit and the milk moustache for a new pro-dairy promotion, which will air in June — weeks before the new Batman film, The Dark Knight hits the big screen. IMDB.COM

More of the same — good or bad?

Sex And The City

Stars Sarah Jessica Parker, Kim Cattrall, Cynthia Nixon, Kristin Davis
Director Michael Patrick King
14A

CRAIG BLANKENHORN

Kristin Davis and Evan Handler star in Sex And The City.

Without a doubt, the feature adaptation of Sex And The City is among the year's most highly-anticipated films. But it's also guaranteed to rekindle some of the he-said-she-said dust-ups the TV series sparked

So Metro's film editor Kasia Iglinski and feature writer Chris Atchison are giving us their takes of the feature from either side of the gender divide — was the film worth the long wait? Does the continuing saga of our four heroines matter like it once did? And is Big still a jackass, or do he and Carrie finally get hitched? Well, we can reveal little of the plot for fear of spoiling its numerous surprises.

What we can say is that the film catches up with Carrie (Sarah Jessica Parker), Miranda (Cynthia Nixon), Samantha (Kim Cattrall) and Charlotte (Kristin Davis) four years after the TV series finale — a veritable eternity in their fast-paced New York City lives. Of course, problems arise almost across the board — someone has an affair, someone gets jilted, and communication issues threaten to tear the foursome apart. Luckily, it can all be sorted out with endless conversation and numerous shopping sprees. Oh, and Oscar-winner Jennifer Hudson (Dreamgirls) joins the cast as Carrie's assistant Louise.

By CHRIS ATCHISON
for Metro Ottawa

REVIEW LEST I BE STRUNG UP by my thumbs for panning the most female-friendly offering in the history of movies, let me start by saying that, for the most part, I liked it — just like I enjoyed the TV show.

Maybe that's because its basically a feature-length version of the show.

It's what the new Indiana Jones is for men — a chance to catch up with a handful of old cinematic friends and hang on for one more ride.

Yes, director Michael Patrick King is careful to preserve much of SATC's signature styling and pacing; and devotees will appreciate the seamless continuation of storyline and early plot twists setting up the action to follow.

But if you're looking for something groundbreaking, the way the series was groundbreaking when it launched in 1998, you won't find it.

Similarly, men like me who appreciated the series but were far from diehards will notice the lack of freshness amongst a cast of characters who seem remarkably self-aware, as if paying homage to their own quirks at every turn. And the addition of Jennifer Hudson is questionable.

So the film isn't bad. It's just a bit too familiar.

Maybe that's the point.

By KASIA IGLINSKI
for Metro Ottawa

REVIEW I WAS A HUGE SEX AND THE city fan. I was sad to see the show come to an end, and may have even let out a high-pitched, girlie screech when I heard our Manolo-shod foursome were headed for the big screen.

Yes, the movie is an extended version of the HBO series, but then why mess with a tried and proven formula?

Admittedly, I was disappointed that the no-holds-barred sex chats from the series — which made female viewers crack up, and more than a few male viewers I know distinctly uncomfortable — didn't seem to continue. Moreover, there are a few scenes that drag, and I couldn't help but feel let down by one of the key characters by the film's end.

But on the whole, Sex And The City is what fans have been waiting for — just without as much sex.

Everybody was Kung Fu fighting

... Well, the animals were anyway

CHRIS ATCHISON
chris.atchison@metronews.ca

FEATURE FILMMAKERS John Stevenson and Mark Osborne have long been martial arts movie fans, but they quickly learned there was a major difference between loving the genre and making a film using its many trademark conventions.

Add to that challenge the complex animation of a wide array of animals ranging from jungle cats to snakes and one can begin to appreciate the difficult task the co-directors faced on the set of the new film Kung Fu Panda. "All of our characters are animals and are furry," Stevenson points out. "Doing fur well is a very complex and computer-processing intensive thing. Then there's the clothing with Chinese robes and things. You put fur and cloth together before they start doing anything else, you have these very difficult interactions which have to be taken (into consideration)."

When an overweight panda —Kung Fu Panda's protagonist —named Po (Jack Black) is deemed the 'Chosen One' in a prophecy, he must train under Master Shifu (Dustin Hoffman) to confront the evil warrior Tai Lung (Deadwood's Ian McShane) in a battle for the ages. The problem is, Po is a tad under-qualified for the task and must first overcome hurdles such as his voracious appetite and general laziness before he can save China from Tai Lung's wrath.

CHRIS ATCHISON/FOR METRO OTTAWA

Kung Fu Panda directors John Stevenson and Mark Osborne.

To call this sort of undertaking an animated logistical nightmare would be an understatement, one made even more complex by the fact that those aforementioned animals engage in complicated and realistic martial arts moves based on the original five kung fu fighting styles: crane, mantis, snake, tigress and monkey.

> « Doing fur well is a very complex and computer-processing intensive thing. »
> Filmmaker John Stevenson

"The biggest challenge of all was not only to make our kung fu look great, but have a story significance and make sure we were telling a story throughout those fights so it wasn't just people fighting for the sake of cool fighting," the Oscar-nominated Osborne explains. While the film is built entirely around Black's brand of humour, the co-directors approached the project from a unique perspective.

Their challenge was to blend comedy and genuine martial arts in a way that would please young audiences, as well as kung fu fans, without looking like a parody or a reinvention of the genre.

"(We thought) what if Akira Kurosawa shot a Jerry Lewis movie?" Osborne recalls.

"What about a great, epic, beautiful, real, formal kung fu world with this central character? With Jack being the impetus, it made it clear we could have these two worlds collide with each other and let the comedy come from that situation."

» Kung Fu Panda opens in theatres next Friday.

Living through The Strangers

New movie Tyler's most challenging role

By ANN-MARIE COLACINO
for Metro Ottawa

FEATURE IF WATCHING the physical turmoil Liv Tyler's character endures in the movie The Strangers seems all too real, that's because some of it is.

Described as one of her most challenging roles to date, the 30-year-old actress had to jump out of windows, crawl outdoors in the dark and run barefoot amid a movie set staged for terror.

"My whole body was kind of covered in bruises.

"I had burns on my feet from sliding against the floor and crawling against the floor that were still there after a year," explains Tyler, who plays Kristen, one part of a couple who gets terrorized by three masked strangers in a remote vacation home.

Well-known for her role as Arwen in the Lord of the Rings trilogy and appearances in father Steven Tyler's Aerosmith videos, Tyler says she's always been a horror flick fan.

Liv Tyler paid a physical price during the filming of The Strangers.

"I'm a shallow jerk and I grew up obsessed with horror movies and loved them," she recalls, adding she used to watch Creepshow, Tales From the Crypt and the Twilight Zone with her mom.

Yet, Tyler doesn't consider The Strangers a "straight up horror movie."

She says what attracted her to the role was the relationship between the two main characters.

"The depth of the character (motivated me to take the role)... You feel for these characters and connect with them and understand them in a way that you wouldn't normally if that layer wasn't there.

"(Director Bryan Bertino) always says that this film is really just a drama, someone just happened to knock at the door."

So what scares her in real life?

"I grew up in Maine in my aunt's big house and I was always scared of the dark and scared of what's under my bed. I still to this day when I go into a hotel, I don't know why, I always look under the bed and I'm nervous to touch my feet down onto the ground... Am I weird?!"

After taking a sabbatical following the birth of her two-year-old son, Milo, Tyler says she's excited to be working again.

However, she acknowledges that her job as an actress is sometimes frightening as well.

Yet, she assures, "I'm not afraid to face my fears... I actually like it. I like the challenge."

Older, wiser, sexier

Parker feels cast, characters needed break

By CHRIS ATCHISON
for Metro Ottawa

FEATURE SHE'S FOUR YEARS older, four years wiser and her return is four years overdue in the minds of fans.

But Sarah Jessica Parker says the wait to bring her beloved Carrie Bradshaw back to her legions of followers in a feature film adaptation of the hit television series Sex And The City was well-timed.

Parker feels the cast, crew and characters themselves needed those years to mature and forward Bradshaw's story in a way that would please fans and do justice to the series.

"I hope they like the choices we made in terms of the story that we told," Parker says. "I think (director) Michael Patrick King and I wanted to give (the fans) everything they thought they wanted and everything they didn't know they wanted and that was really to push on that bruise of despair and disappointment and really live in it."

"I'm very interested in the kind of experience it is to suffer loss and disappointment at 40 than it is at 20 and I think that's really what this movie is about, is being a grown-up and understanding your own complicity and disappointment and how friends are necessary and vital."

The film reunites Carrie with Miranda (Cynthia Nixon), Charlotte (Kristin Davis) and Samantha (Kim Cattrall) as they continue on with their lives in New York City — and in Samantha's case Los Angeles — but with a few plot twists that uproot their lives and put their friendship to the test.

The challenge with reviving a television show such as Sex And The City for the big screen, of course, is finding a way to make it relevant for fans who have been there since the very beginning and for those who may not have seen the show during its 1998-2004 run.

Then there is the relevance of the characters themselves, icons to some for their frank talk about sex, relationships and the realities of life as a woman juggling her personal and professional lives — not to mention ample talk of designer clothing and high-priced shoes.

"I don't know that they're relevant," Parker concedes. "I don't think that's for me to say ... I don't know how relevant they are or what the legacy of the show will or will not be, or the movie. I just know that I love this work and I love this job and I love these people so I wanted to give it one more shot before it was too late."

» Sex And The City opens in theatres today.

Murphy in talks to bring Axel Foley back to life

EDDIE MURPHY is set to reprise his role in police drama Beverly Hills Cop, according to U.S. reports.

The actor will team up with director Brett Ratner to return for the fourth installment of the franchise as Michigan detective Axel Foley.

It is hoped the film will be shot next year in time for a 2010 release, reports industry publication Variety.

The first movie from the Beverly Hills Cop franchise was released in 1984, and grossed $316 million US at cinemas worldwide. The second installment released in 1987 grossed $300 million US at cinemas worldwide.

Beverly Hills Cop III though did not live up to its predecessors when it was released in 1994, earning only $119 million US.

Rowling to release Potter prequel

NOVEL Harry Potter creator J.K. Rowling has written a prequel to her series of best-selling books — unravelling the story before her first novel Harry Potter And The Philosopher's Stone. But fans will be disappointed to learn the new tale is not set for publication — it will instead be sold at auction next month to raise money for charity. METRO NEWS SERVICES

Last Dance

Jennifer Fournier prepares to take her final bow. What's next for this prima ballerina?

By Briony Smith
Contributing Writer

On June 22, Jennifer Fournier will take the stage for the last time to dance Five Brahms Waltzes in the Manner of Isadora Duncan. After 22 years with The National Ballet of Canada, the principal dancer is retiring. Her decision to retire reflects her graceful approach to her artistry and life. "I'm not trying to make it a perfect performance," she says. "If you try to capture something and hold on to it, you end up destroying what makes it beautiful." After careful consideration, the 39-year-old dancer and mother of two decided that she wanted to leave on her own terms. "I accept that it's time to do something new. I don't know what that will be yet, but to keep your soul alive you have to feed it new experiences." The final piece in Five Brahms Waltzes is especially challenging. "It brings me back to how I felt as a child, dancing by myself in my parents' living room. One of the most important lessons I've learned is that the love that I had at such a young age is still in me, and it's that part of me that still finds true joy and bliss in dance."

Editors' Pick

PAINT BALL

Go from the office to dinner with a versatile palette.

Olivia Chantecaille, creative director for Chantecaille Beauté, shares her palette tips with ELLE. "For day, use a light shade all over the eyelid and sweep the darkest shade along the lashes. In the evening, apply the medium shade in the crease and the darkest shade near the lashes for definition. Dust a light pearl colour above the cheekbone and on the browbone to add highlights. Finish with a coat of mascara."

Yves Saint Laurent Palette Couleurs D'Afrique for the Eyes ($78)

CHANGE AGENT

Switch up your makeup routine this summer!

Evgeny Loukianenkov, Giorgio Armani's national face designer for Canada, offers advice on how to get that gorgeous summer glow: "Try a light-textured foundation with SPF for your face and sheer, bright colours for your eyes and lips." Off to work? "Use a primer, light foundation or tinted moisturizer with SPF. Polish off the look with neutral lipstick or lipgloss and intense mascara." Pressed for time? "Try a bronzing powder because it gives immediate results."

Yves Rocher Eyeshadow in Cosmic Rose ($12)

Lancôme Color Fever Plumper in Curvy ($29)

Elizabeth Arden Sun Goddess Bronzing Powder in Medium ($38)

TWIST AND SHOUT

Most fitness experts say that the best way to rehydrate after a workout is with both water and fluids containing electrolytes. But who wants to carry a water bottle and an energy drink? The SWIGZ Balance Dual Hydration bottle solves the problem: Its pop-up top allows access to two separate 12-ounce containers in one bottle. Each side is also colour-coded — so you won't be surprised on your next big gulp. LESLEY YOUNG

Ivana's beauty indulgences

Ivana Santilli, singer/songwriter, her latest album, TO.NY, hits stores on June 10:

Q What products make you look and feel good?

A When I allow myself the indulgence: La Mer face creams, Kiehl's for the body, Sebastian Shaper Zero hair spray and molding mud for my hair and Stila makeup.

Q What are your healthy eating habits?

A I eat only fruit for breakfast. I eat food in as close a state as possible to natural and fresh. No fried foods, except for the guilty pleasure of my friends' French fries. I eat when I'm hungry, but I don't overeat.

CELEB BEAUTY

MARCY CORNBLUM
entertainment@metronews.ca

Q Describe your style.

A Trends are not something to be followed, but merely seen as one of the many options. Fashion is what is out there. Style is what a woman chooses. At the moment, my preference is '79 rocker chic.

Q How do you keep life in perspective?

A I like to focus on family, friends, music, food and love. As I am very passionate, I'm learning to not react too quickly, focusing on the solutions as opposed to the mess.

SIMON HAYTER/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Singer/songwriter Ivana Santilli.

Q How do you stay fit?

A Travelling keeps me quite fit. When I'm in Manhattan I walk everywhere. In Toronto, I take yoga classes that really kick my butt.

Marcy Cornblum is a freelance journalist. She's developed up-close and personal relationships with celebrities including actors, musicians and television personalities.

Singer Ivana Santilli likes to treat herself to Stila makeup.

Peek inside real Hills reality

IDIOT BOX

RICK McGINNIS
rick.mcginnis@metronews.ca

FAMOUS AIMLESS: I'd better come clean and admit that I find something fascinating about the phenomena that is The Hills — the most carefully staged, impossible to believe reality show ever broadcast, and the show whose strange production methodology might actually be the forerunner to a whole new way of making TV.

Gene Simmons Family Jewels, A&E's answer to The Osbournes, is another brilliant example of how to create TV using materials close at hand, and the bountiful resources offered by tie-ins, product placement and cover sponsorship, which underwrites production costs and provides the show with plot and locations. It seems altogether likely that the whole Kentucky Derby episode arc of the show was subsidized by the organizers of the famous horse race, and I don't even want to know about the contra deal that went into the multi-episode "Gene and Shannon get plastic surgery" storyline.

The Hills is a bit more subtle about its production machinery — its probably the most subtle thing about the show, to be honest — but the show's producers admitted to the New York Post this week that its presenting some unusual challenges for the show, which returns to MTV this August. "The show purposely leaves out the fame life and leaves in the non-fame life," said Tony DiSanto, MTV's head of programming. "It's not a documentary about Lauren (Conrad) who is a star because she's on a show called The Hills."

But that's exactly what it is, Tony, and they're finding it harder and harder to segregate the fame-induced aspects of the cast's lives from the non-famous ones, and DiSanto admits that the steady encroachment of the former on the latter is likely shortening the show's longevity. It won't be long until the average episode of The Hills is reduced to the following avant-garde drama:

SHOT: Lauren stands outside her house waiting for her driver, plays with iPhone.

CUT TO:

SHOT: Heidi brushes her teeth, examines the toothbrush, lifts her lip with her finger to examine her gumline.

CUT TO:

SHOT: Lauren is standing in the lineup at a Starbucks waiting for a grande chai latte when a camera flash makes her turn with a start.

CUT TO:

SHOT: Whitney Port watches Judge Judy with her maid, Esmeralda, while opening Fed-Ex packages full of perfume product samples, smelling each one briefly and giving the ones that make her grimace to the maid in her 2007 MTV Movie Awards t-shirt.

Lauren Conrad of the show The Hills.

Rick McGinnis has been writing about movies since you could still rent Beta tapes. He hasn't seen a western he didn't like.

Networks team up for cancer benefit

FUNDRAISER ABC, CBS and NBC will air a live primetime special Sept. 5 to raise money for cancer research.

The hourlong Stand Up to Cancer will air commercial-free, with musical performances and appearances by actors and news anchors. Funds raised will go to organizations that work on research and treatment of cancer, with perhaps 20 per cent to be earmarked for less traditional approaches.

Spider-Man producer Laura Ziskin, a cancer survivor, will produce the program. "The scientists tell us we're on the brink, but we need the will," she said.

Manson picks up Terminator role

CASTING Musician Shirley Manson, lead singer with the rock group Garbage, has joined the cast of Fox's Terminator: The Sarah Connor Chronicles, which begins its second season in the fall.

The flame-haired vocalist will play Catherine Weaver, the CEO of a cutting-edge high-tech company. The Terminator movie spinoff stars British actress Lena Headey in the title role and Thomas Dekker as future rebel leader John Connor. Garbage, famed for the tune Only Happy When It Rains from its 1995 album, has been quiet since releasing a hits package last year.

Company brings gritty prison drama

Irish director branches out with 'gutsy' theatre

By KIM MANNIX VERMETTE
for Metro Ottawa

Profile FOR HIS LATEST play John P. Kelly, director and founder of SevenThirty Productions, has moved out of Ireland.

With this tenth show, the company decided to leave behind the modern Irish dramas it has always done in the past, in favour of Iron, a gritty prison drama by Scottish playwright Rona Munro.

Kelly says it may be the first time the play — originally a piece at the Edinburgh Fringe Festival — has been performed in Canada.

"It's not Irish, but it is still gutsy and daring," explains Kelly. "It was time to branch out. Niches are great, but we don't want to restrict ourselves to only Irish theatre. We want to do great theatre — period."

details

» Iron runs at Arts Court Theatre, 2 Daly Avenue, through June 7. Tickets are $25, $20 for students and seniors. To reserve, and for show times, call 613-564-7240.

Iron is set inside a women's prison, where Fay, played by Margo MacDonald, is serving a life sentence for killing her husband. Her daughter, Josie, played by Colleen Sutton, decides to visit her mother after not seeing her for 15 years. At first strangers, with many unresolved tensions, the duo begins to rebuild a mother-daughter bond. At the sidelines are the two prison guards, played by Kate Smith and Brian Stewart, whose domestic lives and interactions also work to build the story.

The play is compelling and expertly written, says Kelly. "There is a real heaviness in the script, but the darkness is alleviated by some unexpected humour and really clever writing.

"And it's ultimately a thriller, with a twist at the end. I think it speaks to the strength of the writing that it works as a gripping drama and a thriller."

ALAN DEAN PHOTOGRAPHY

Kate Smith, left, and Margo MacDonald perform a scene from Iron, SevenThirty Productions' latest drama, currently running at Arts Court Theatre.

Sutton is also quick to praise the writing, and says what immediately struck her about the script was the realness of the characters. "I love that even in this complicated situation, mothers are still mothers and there is a really interesting relationship between the characters Josie and Fay," she says.

Kelly is wary of giving too much away when he talks about Iron, but he does say that there's a social statement to be made. Not in a heavy-handed way, but through the complexity of all four characters.

"I think this plays makes some serious, defensible statements about the affect of long-term incarceration, in a way that really sticks with you."

P-a-r-t-i-c-i-p-a-t-i-o-n spells fun in touring musical

GET OUT THERE
KIM MANNIX VERMETTE
kim.mannixvermette@metronews.ca

In school I was always a bit of a word nerd. I got excited whenever the teacher announced a spelling test, and when I watch, with rapt attention, any televised spelling competition, I am always a little bit jealous of the kid competitors — having never been part of a "bee" myself.

I guess that's why the idea of a musical comedy all about a spelling bee is so appealing to me. Especially because this one, The 25th Annual Putnam County Spelling Bee, lets audience members — maybe even those who have bee dreams of their own — get involved in the show. Before each show of the touring musical, making its way across Canada and currently playing here in Ottawa, "head spelling wrangler" Beth Reisman recruits four audience members to come on stage and join the cast as they dance, sing, and — naturally — spell their way through the show.

So what do Reisman and her team of wranglers seek when cruising through the pre-show crowd? "We look for a nice variety of ages, gender, all shapes and sizes. Just anyone who will be good on stage, and have some fun being a part of the show," she says.

"Some people are surprised when we ask them if they want to be on stage. A lot of people run away from us, but of course others are thrilled to be up there with the actors."

SUBMITTED PHOTO

Local audience members get to take the stage with the cast (pictured) of the touring musical comedy, The 25th Annual Putnam County Spelling Bee, on now at the National Arts Centre.

The premise of the show is inviting and fun, for both the orthographically advanced, and the phonetically phobic. The action is set inside a school gym, where an eclectic and socially challenged group of adolescents square off with one another, and contend with an equally eccentric pair of judges.

There are many laughs throughout, thanks to a witty script written by Rachel Sheinkin and lively music by William Finn. But as Reisman points out, it's also a lot of fun watching how the audience members do on stage, and how the actors play with them.

"Because you never really know what someone is going to say or do on the stage, it keeps it unpredictable and fresh. If an audience speller keeps getting the words right, it could go on and on," Reisman says.

She has been touring with the show for several months across North America, and says she thinks local audience spellers will be as competitive as they are anywhere else. "I am sure the audience there will have fun with it. This is the kind of show that seems to bring fun wherever it goes."

But if you're hoping to get on stage, you might want to study the dictionary before you go.

After covering hard news for a few years, Kim discovered her real passion – writing about the wonderful world of music, theatre, visual arts and literature.

HOROSCOPE

ARIES | March 21-April 20
Your ability to flabbergast others will be noted. Try to complete a project as soon as possible. A lapse in judgment terminates a meeting.

TAURUS | April 21-May 21
Fellow workers are pushy. Be more responsive to a gloomy person's needs. A wonderful transformation is coming soon.

GEMINI | May 22-June 21
Work on new techniques but don't change jobs. You'll find that interference is bothersome. Don't go beyond the bounds of good taste.

CANCER | June 22-July 22
Spread the news about someone's intentions. A crisis is weathered with ease. Express contradictions to a naughty person.

LEO | July 23-Aug. 23
A mechanical object breaks down. A former associate will lend a hand. Too many twists of fate will raise eyebrows.

VIRGO | Aug. 24-Sept. 22
You'll enjoy throwing yourself into a labour of love. A woman's insight will mean much. Benefits increase when you think of the future.

LIBRA | Sep. 23-Oct. 23
A profound love will stir your soul. You'll feel eager to move forward. A surprising offer will be made by a co-worker.

SCORPIO | Oct. 24- Nov. 22
A definite change is taking place. A jealous man wants to make a proposal. Don't try to fool anyone about anything.

SAGITTARIUS | Nov. 23- Dec. 21
Cheer up a friend who has the blahs. Strengthen a friendship with some revelations. Don't forget an important detail.

CAPRICORN | Dec. 22-Jan. 20
Changes are nasty when someone gets involved. Too much pickiness will vex you. A grumbler will speak the truth.

AQUARIUS | Jan. 21-Feb. 18
Don't make statements based on flimsy data. Find your lost hopes and fulfill them. A fabulous message will make you smile.

PISCES | Feb. 19-Mar. 20
You'll find a way to help a weirdo to fit in. Don't be surprised if work is interrupted. Be careful when travelling late in the day. AVATAR VENUS

The digits 1 through 9 will appear exactly once in each row, each column, and each zone. (A zone is an outlined 3x3 grid within the larger puzzle grid. There are nine of these zones in the puzzle.) Do not enter a digit into a box if it already appears elsewhere in the same 3x3 zone, or in the same row across the puzzle, or column down the puzzle.

Ashlee confirms baby rumours

Singer Ashlee Simpson and her husband, rocker Pete Wentz, are expecting their first child, the couple have announced.

"While many have speculated about this, we wanted to wait until after the first trimester to officially confirm that we are expecting our first child. This is truly the most joyous time in our lives and we are excited to share the happy news and start our family," the couple said in a message posted on the social networking website friendsorenemies.com.

Simpson and Wentz announced their engagement in April and married this month.

Naomi charged

Supermodel Naomi Campbell has been charged with assaulting a police officer after a disturbance on a plane at Heathrow's new Terminal 5, British authorities said yesterday.

The 38-year-old faces a total of six charges relating to last month's incident on a stationary British Airways plane.

Campbell was escorted by police from the Los Angeles-bound flight after claiming one of her bags had gone missing.

The star was said by her lawyer to be "bitterly disappointed" about being charged in the incident, which happened during the days of chaos that followed the opening of the $8.48 billion US terminal.

The Crown Prosecution Service (CPS) and Scotland Yard confirmed the charges, after the New York-based Campbell answered bail at Heathrow police station in west London yesterday.

"Ms. Campbell has today been charged with three offences of assaulting a constable, one offence of disorderly conduct likely to cause harassment, alarm or distress and two offences of using threatening, abusive words or behaviour to cabin crew," a CPS statement said.

If convicted she faces up to six months in jail and a maximum fine of $10,000 for the alleged assault. She also faces a $5,000 fine if convicted of using threatening, abusive words or behaviour to cabin crew.

Campbell was granted bail and is due to appear at Uxbridge Magistrates Court, west London, next month.

George, girlfriend call it quits

George Clooney and his girlfriend Sarah Larson have split up after a year of dating, People.com reports.

The actor's rep, Stan Rosenfield, would only say: "We do not comment on George's personal life."

The pair initially met in Las Vegas nearly four years ago, when Larson, a one-time Fear Factor winner, was a cocktail server at The Whiskey Bar. But it wasn't until the pair met for the second time in June 2007 in Las Vegas that sparks flew.

Larson, 29, and Clooney, 47, made their public debut together at the Venice and Deauville film festivals last September. Later that month, the twosome were injured in a motorcycle accident.

Earlier this year, Larson accompanied Clooney to the Oscars – the first girlfriend ever to go with him to the event.

Though there was speculation Clooney would end his longtime bachelorhood, in March the actor shot down talk of an engagement. Metro News Services

Leigh denies starring in sex tape

Grey's Anatomy star Chyler Leigh has laughed off reports she is the star of a new Internet sex tape, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The actress, who plays Lexie Grey on the hit medical drama, was purported to be shown naked in the bath in the clip.

But a spokesman for Leigh has pointed out differences between the woman in the footage and Leigh.

The representative tells TMZ.com that the woman in the video has a tongue ring but no tattoo on her back; Leigh doesn't have her tongue pierced and has had a tattoo on her back since the age of 19.

Gwyneth works out for hours

Anyone who wants a body like actress Gwyneth Paltrow should be prepared to work for it, us-magazine.com reports.

"I think she works out three hours a day, which is one of the keys to success," said chef Mario Batali. "If we all did that, we'd all look like Gwyneth Paltrow. Or at least closer."

He added that Paltrow, 35, "loves to eat ... and, you know, she never puts on a pound!"

That wasn't the case when she pregnant with her son, Moses, however. Paltrow reportedly hated her figure following his birth in April 2006, and struggled for months to rid her body of the extra 42 pounds.

"I didn't mind the big boobs. But I hated the stomach roll, the back fat and the post-pregnant butt," Paltrow revealed to V magazine. "It was so hard to get rid of. Especially the final 20 pounds."

What helped her shed the weight, she said, was eating "organic, seasonal food that isn't processed."

Paltrow and Batali are teaming up for their upcoming PBS documentary Spain ... On the Road Again, airing this fall.

"We had an amazing time – we saw everything!" Batali said.

"Predominately," he added, the show is "about understanding Spain from the perspective of a casual traveller. It's very much like a road trip, we just drove into a place, figured out what was going on and tried to get a hold of it."

Sienna shows insecurity

Actress Sienna Miller was "nervous" about acting alongside super-slender Keira Knightley – as she had been forced to put on weight for the role, imdb.com reports.

Miller appears with Knightley in forthcoming movie The Edge Of Love, and the normally svelte star was asked to pile on the pounds for picture, which tells the story of poet Dylan Thomas.

Miller, 26, admits having to gain weight for the film worried her, as she feared her trim co-star would emphasize her added bulk.

"I was actually pretty nervous about acting alongside Keira because my part required me to put on weight," Miller says. "I stuffed my face for the months we were in production. I had huge fry-up breakfasts, pasties for lunch and lots of toasties (toasted sandwiches). Then, I had to face seeing myself alongside Keira, who is the most beautiful woman in the world."

Rihanna on cheating

She may be flying high now, but Rihanna has revealed she's had her fair share of downs in the past, Ananova.com reports.

Especially as far as her love life is concerned.

"I've been cheated on," the singer said. "When I was young my boyfriend was unfaithful, it happens. What did I do? I walked away. If someone does it once he's going to do it again. I wasn't in a marriage, you know, so as soon as something like that happens you have to walk away."

Rihanna has also adressed the issue of her private life since becoming famous, saying: "I don't have a private life. It's been hard to adjust to it all. It's been hard, definitely. But it's something you just have to deal with."

While there are people who try to befriend her because she is famous, she says she finds it easy to distinguish between the fakes and her real friends.

"I have a good bull detector," Rihanna revealed.

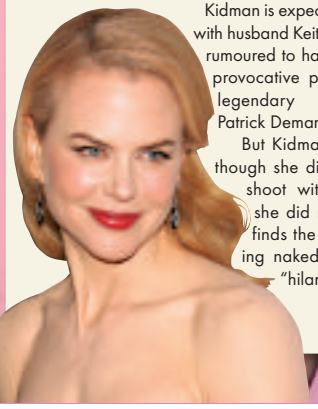
Nicole denies posing

Actress Nicole Kidman has laughed off reports she is to follow in the footsteps of actress Demi Moore and singer Britney Spears by posing naked and pregnant for a magazine shoot, imdb.com reports.



Kidman is expecting her first child with husband Keith Urban and was rumoured to have stripped for a provocative photospread with legendary photographer Patrick Demarchelier.

But Kidman admits that although she did take part in a shoot with Demarchelier, she did not bare all and finds the idea of her posing naked while pregnant "hilarious."
